Creating Transformational Leadership: A Conversation with Simone P. Joyaux, ACFRE

Simone P. Joyaux, ACFRE, provides services in fund development, strategic planning, board development, and management to all types and sizes of nonprofit organizations.

Comments from Simone on this program:

What does transformation mean to you? The dictionary says changing completely for the better. And the dictionary says conversation and - revolution. Wow. Are you prepared for that? Am I? Now ask yourself: What is leadership but change.

P.S. Product warning! I'm either famous (or infamous) for "pushing the envelope." I'm looking forward to a challenging conversation, disagreement, and maybe even arguments with you.

Here are some questions to whet your appetite:

- If we are transformational leaders, what questions do we owe ourselves, our organizations and our donors, the profession and the philanthropic sector?
How do we as leaders prepare ourselves to learn and change?
What is the nature of risk for transformational leaders - and what level of risk are you able and willing to take?
What is the nature of politics and privilege in philanthropy?
